Early Morning Tremor Rouses Residents Here

2:32 A.M. Disturbance Felt for 60 Miles Around Bay Area

An earthquake of intensity severe enough to rouse many Redwood City residents from their sleep rocked the San Francisco Bay region over a radius of 60 miles early Monday morning, shattering plate glass windows and mirrors, cracking chimneys and knocking articles from shelves and walls in homes and stores. No casualties were reported.

Damage on the peninsula was believed negligible. No damage was reported in Redwood City.

Dr. Albert Newlin, director of the seismograph at Santa Clara University, said the main shock occurred at 2:32 a.m., the United Press reported.

Local Teacher Joins Education Fraternity

Jack Chappelle, teacher at the Washington School here, was formally initiated into Stanford's Delta chapter of Phi Delta Kappa, professional education fraternity, Saturday evening at ceremonies conducted in San Francisco by James Thornton, Sequoia high school instructor who is president of the Stanford chapter. The initiation was a joint ceremony with the University of California's Lambda chapter at the Masonic Hall.

Sequoia Concert To Offer Pieces Recalling Past

Selections chosen from the programs presented at the nine preceding yearly concerts will comprise the program for the tenth annual concert of the Sequoia high school band on April 9.

Intensive practice by both the advisory class and advanced bands is being held each week in preparation for the concert, for which the tentative program includes:

1928—"Queen of the Night."
1929—"Determination Overture."
1930—"Echoes from the Metropolitan."
1931—"Ballet Egyptian."
1932—Novelty: "Sally Trombone" and "The Whistler and His Dog."
1933—"Morning, Noon and Night."
1934—"Chinese Wedding Procession" and "A Japanese Carnival."
1935—"Eleanor."
1936—"Safari."
1937—"Saxophone Ensemble."
Finale—"The Pilgrim."

Postoffice-Depot Mail Route Bids Open

Bids for carrying the mail between the Redwood City Postoffice and the Southern Pacific Depot will be received by Postmaster R. E. O'Connell Jr. until 5 p.m. March 18, he announced today.

Persons bidding must be over 15 years of age and suitable to be entrusted with the custody of the mails. Proposals must be made at a yearly rate, according to postal laws.

O'Connell said that Phillip Sharkey, who has been conducting the service for several years, had decided voluntarily to give it up.

Power Utility Would Buy Part Of P. A. System

North Palo Alto Area Lines Are Sought By P. G. & E.

The Pacific Gas and Electric Company wishes to buy the gas distributing system of the City of Palo Alto in the North Palo Alto area, which lies on the San Mateo county side of the boundary line.

I. B. Adams, manager of the San Jose division of the company, made the proposition in a letter submitted to the Palo Alto City Council Monday. In his opinion, the sale of the utility "would please the majority of customers in that (North Palo Alto) area."

The proposal was referred to the board of public works of Palo Alto.

SERVES OUTSIDE CITY

Following is Adams' letter: "On the attached sketch you will note that the City of Palo Alto serves gas to customers in an area outside the city limits to the northeast of Palo Alto from Walnut to Laurel street and between Menalto and Pope streets.

"We have received numerous requests for gas service in this area, but we hesitate to make duplicate service where you are already serving. We, of course, are serving electricity to all the customers in this area. Bearing this in mind and also owing to the fact that we have our gas mains in this territory, I am asking you at this time if the City of Palo Alto will consider selling your gas distribution system in this particular area to us.

"This, in my opinion, would please the majority of customers in that area.

ASK DEFINITE BOUNDARY

"From time to time we have disposed of our facilities to you covering gas and electric services, wherever you have brought this territory inside the city limits.

"I think you will agree with me that there should be a definite boundary established so that duplication of distribution lines and services will not be made to serve the public.

"Will you kindly give this matter your consideration and advise me of your wishes in this matter?"

DELAY SEEN IN EXTENDING HETCHY LINE

Difficulties in Getting Rights-of-Way Balk Plans

Delay of perhaps six months in the realization of the plans to give Hetch Hetchy water to Palo Alto and other south peninsula communities was foreseen today as the result of difficulty encountered by the City of San Francisco in obtaining necessary rights of way for the pipeline, which it is proposed to lay from Redwood City to Mayfield.

Stringent requirements of the state highway division for use of El Camino Real are reported to have turned San Francisco water officials to the alternate possibility of securing easements from private property owners adjacent to the Southern Pacific right-of-way.

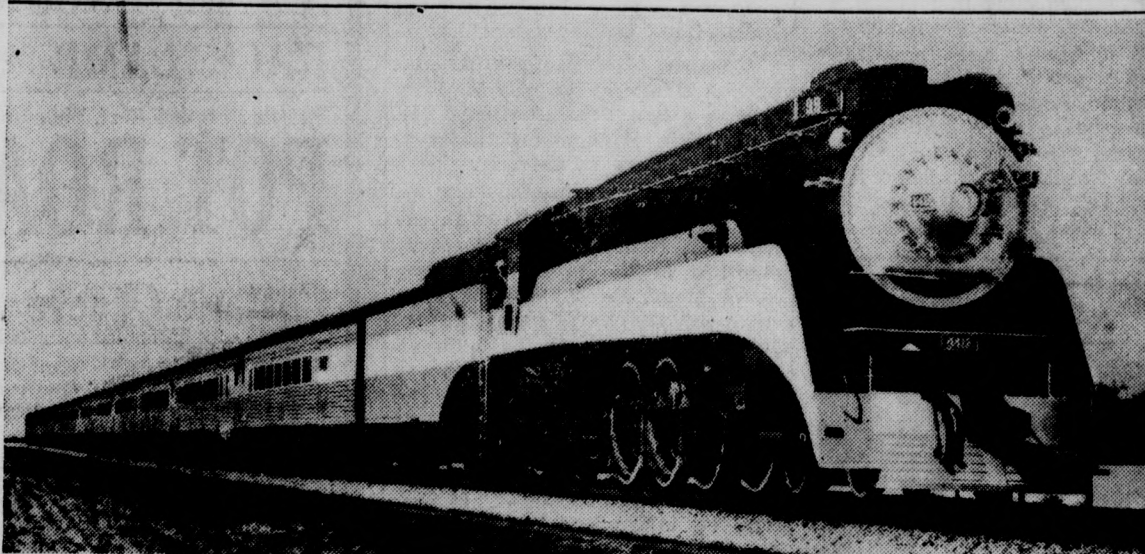

Under the circumstances, hope of getting Hetch Hetchy water in the southern section by summer was abandoned by Palo Alto engineers.

Rossi Arraignment Scheduled Monday

Luis Rossi, Redwood City and Atherton cement worker, will be arraigned Monday at 9:30 p.m. before Superior Judge A. R. Cotton on a charge of hit-run driving.

The accusation had its origin in a February 28 accident on Woodside road, where Rossi allegedly smashed into a machine driven by Fred Wilson of Redwood City, and then drove on, failing to stop and give aid to Mary Brown, passenger in Wilson's machine who was injured when the car was sent hurtling into a telephone pole.

New Daylight Streamliners Arrive

Here are two views of the Southern Pacific's new daylight streamline train, which will make a test run through here Saturday morning and be on exhibition in Palo Alto Sunday from 2:30 to 6 p.m. Above, a front view of the train. Below, a rear view of the parlor-observation car.

Bowl Program Plans Drafted

Plans were being made today for the annual Easter Sunrise services at the Emerald Lake Bowl, which once again this year will be a reverent meeting place for thousands of peninsulars, drawn to one of the most picturesquely beautiful sites in the bay region.

The services will be sponsored jointly this year by the young people societies of the Redwood City churches and the local ministerial union, with Rev. W. J. Owen as program chairman.

Owen, secretary of the ministerial union, said that the name of the speaker who will give the March 28 early morning sermon will be announced soon.

Generally the program is expected to resemble the programs which have long been one of the outstanding religious rites on the peninsula.

There will be a speaker from outside the city—possibly a Palo Alto minister, according to Reverend Owen—and each of the local ministers will contribute something to the program.

In the past choral singers have been heard at the services.

Last year clear skies added earthly beauty to the spiritual impressiveness of the ceremony. The rising sun tinged the mountainside bowl and the surrounding hills with gold. The sight was one long to be remembered by those attending the services.

WIFE OF ORCHESTRA LEADER HEADS ROSTER OF SPEEDERS

A pile of white traffic tags and neat notations in his police docket today marked records of Judge Edward I. McAuliffe's recent traffic courts, in one of which Mrs. Griff Williams, wife of the San Francisco orchestra leader, paid a fine of $15 for speeding.

Patrolman Elmer Landy cited the orchestra leader's wife for driving 70 miles per hour on the Bayshore highway near Redwood City.

Next heaviest speeding fines were paid by Julio Romero, Petaluma, who was driving 57 miles per hour with four persons in the front seat of his car and five in the back. He paid $10, as did Leon M. Ferko, the latter cited by local police, while Romero was cited by highway patrolmen.

Other patrol speed arrests resulted in the following fines:

Charles W. Saunders, Palo Alto, $5 each; and John Kurnez, San Mateo, Harold Staub, Palo Alto, $5 each.

Five speeders were cited by Redwood City police. They were George Carl and Gilbert Edney, fined $5; Leon M. Ferko, penalized $10; and George Carl and G. F. Walker, assessed $250 each.

Overparking in Redwood City brought the following drivers $1 penalties: Edward McCabe, J. A. Fitzpatrick, W. S. Bedbury, J. M. Litchfield, Cecil Werner, Kugh Moody, D. R. Je Roller and C. Kyes.

Rolison Nears Texas On Auto Trip Here

Ernest A. Rolison, county executive-appointed who is now on his way here by automobile from Washington, D. C., to take over the interim position of budget director, is headed towards El Paso, Tex., today, his letters to friends indicated.

Rolison and his wife, who have been more than a year in the capital, where he was on the staff of the Rural Electrification Administration, left Washington Monday. Traveling the southern route—the only one safe at this time of the year—Rolison said their present speed of travel indicated they would arrive in Redwood City "on the 17th or 18th."

SOCIAL HEAD MOVES FROM OLD COTTAGE

Relief, Health Offices Put in Adjoining Quarters

Reconstruction of the rented health and welfare building so that offices of Director Charles C. Gans and Adrian Ward, relief head, will be adjoining, was under way today, expected to be completed by Monday.

The change will move Ward's office from the little cottage west of the courthouse to the office which is now Dr. Gans' and will see Dr. Gans installed in new headquarters in a renovated room that was formerly part of the engineering department.

Part of the rear wall of the present health department will be torn down so that the officials' offices will be adjoining.

The arrangement will permit a more efficient functioning of the department, Dr. Gans said, adding that he had wished for a long time to have the change carried out.

The present health department will be rebuilt so that waiting rooms are available for clients.

What will become of the cottage that is the present relief headquarters has not been determined, according to Dr. Gans, but he hopes that it will be used for some other branch of the social service, since additional floor space is required.

Grand Jurors Say 'Big Shot' Probe Also Due

4-Hour Session Finds Inquisitors Reticent To Discuss Plans

With Sheriff James J. McGrath and the San Mateo County Grand Jury differing over just why he was called before the inquisitors, the jurors Tuesday night in a four-hour session concentrated their deliberations on "small-time" gambling, slot-machines and bank nights, preparatory to going after the "big shots."

Sheriff McGrath, after being closeted with the jurors for more than an hour, told newsmen that the jurors had "given me hell."

The jurors, however, declared that they had merely sought "background" from McGrath.

DOG OWNERS GIVE UP

Three spokesmen for the Daly City Merchants' Association, waiting to present a protest against alleged discrimination of the Bayshore City dog track towards county-raised greyhounds, cooled their heels from 8 o'clock until 11 without securing an audience.

Peter Pavlos, spokesman, admitted his chagrin.

"I guess we'll have to wait for the next grand jury," he said. "We waited out here like a bunch of donkeys."

Clarence M. Dosssee of Redwood City, jury spokesman, said "all we did was talk over gambling and bank nights."

AFTER ALL GAMBLING

"We are going after all types of gambling," he said, "but we're after the smaller ones first."

Asked whether the jury intended to go after "big-shots," he declared, "We hope to. We want to know who they are, and hope their names may come out."

"We haven't reached dog-tracks or 'big-shots' yet," he said, insisting that the jury was still dealing with "generalities."

When Judge Maxwell McNutt swore in the jury, he specifically instructed them to investigate gambling and to seek out the big-time operators.

The swastika, generally interpreted as a sun symbol, is one of the most ancient and widespread of all ornamental forms, appearing in both hemispheres.

McKinley Pupils Fete Arbor Day In Entertainment

In commemoration of Arbor Day, students of the S-E general science class presented an afternoon assembly program Monday at McKinley Intermediate School.

The program, announced by Robert Wilkins, included a playlet, "Arbor Day Dream," with James McCone, Ted Storey, Rosalind Sunford, Jacqueline Bush, Dewey Hall, Beverly Irwin, Barbara Hall, Marian Copps, Lester Fan, Joe Dematteis, Marjorie Glathe, Edith Lagoni, Anne Wilson and Marian Werner in the cast; a piano solo, "Dance of the Honeybees," by Carley Deskins; a talk on Arbor Day by Kenneth Straney; a talk on Luther Burbank by James McCone; trumpet duets, "I'm a Longing for You" and "One Fleeting Hour," played by Charles Anderson and Dudley Metteuer, accompanied by Ronald Spink; and two songs, "Springtime" and "Laughing Spring," sung by a chorus of girls, including Mary Margaret Lucas, Dorothy Fisher, Jean Folsom, Carley Deskins, Betty Werner and Betty Lee Parish, accompanied at the piano by Francis McQuilkin.

After the assembly program, Mary Lucas led the group in a tree planting ceremony on the school grounds.

MENLO PARK NEWS NOTES

Edward Derry has purchased the Irving Dunn lot on Pine street. Mr. Derry intends to erect a cottage on the property shortly.

Edwin Walsh, a clerk at Stanford University, has been quite ill for some days. His friends will be pleased to learn that he is recovering.

Mrs. Dorothy Fredericks, Menlo Park, has written a poem, "The Yerba Buena Shores." It is a masterpiece and has been accepted by the San Francisco-Oakland Bridge Commission. It will shortly be published. Mrs. Fredericks has considerable literary talent.

J. Raber, brother of Father Raber of Menlo Park, will be married to a San Francisco belle. Mr. Raber is a prominent bond broker with offices in the city.

St. Patrick's celebration will be held this year on March 13 in the parochial hall. Much interest is manifested in the event. The play called "Poor Paddy" will be presented by the very successful St. Joseph's Players, who have organized to present what promises to be a splendid performance. The leads are taken by Mrs. James Doherty, William Wilson, James T. O'Keefe Jr., Miss Agnes Sullivan, Joseph Morry, Miss Emily McCarthy, Kip Morry and Desmond Sullivan.

The scene is laid around Boston. A maid tries to do away with her brother for his property. Paddy shows his Irish shrewdness in circumventing her. Three fast-moving acts will hold the attention of the audience from start to finish. Several interludes will also be of interest. Dancing is to follow the program.

The members of St. Joseph's Alumni will receive in a body Holy Communion at the 8:30 mass in the Church of the Nativity Sunday morning. The breakfast will take place at Bertrands on Middlefield road. The Ladies Sodality will also receive the monthly communion at the same time.

Miss Helen Quicfelt, a senior at Stanford, is ill at the home of her mother, Mrs. E. Walsh. The talented young woman graduates next June. She has planned to engage in teaching.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Valinga, who have been visiting relatives in Leeward, Holland, sailed from Cherbourg last week on the S. S. Queen Mary, and are scheduled to reach their Menlo Park home about the middle of March.

Mrs. J. T. Cooper was hostess to members of the Menlo Park Woman's Club at her home, 917 Durston road, Redwood City, Monday afternoon at a luncheon, which was followed by the regular business meeting of the group. Twenty members were present for the 1 o'clock luncheon, at which the Rev. and Mrs. Schuyler Pratt were the guests of honor. Rev. Pratt was the guest speaker, talking on "The Meaning of the Bible in Modern Education."

At the business meeting, a nomination committee was appointed and it was decided to hold the club's founders breakfast tomorrow. Mrs. Cooper, secretary of the group, was named chairman of the affair and appointed Mrs. Marion Silver and Mrs. T. B. Foster to assist her.

Next meeting of the garden section of the club will be held at the home of Mrs. Foster in Atherton, March 22, at 2:30 o'clock.

Memorial services were held by Menlo Park American Legion Auxiliary Unit No. 443 in Legion Hall Tuesday for Adelaide Blanchard, who was a charter member of the unit. Mrs. Blanchard was affectionately called "Grandma" and was a beloved pioneer. President Dora Devol read a history of her life, Chaplain Genevieve Cook read a prayer, and Ethel French placed memorial flowers around her picture. Isabelle Weeden Lindquist sang "Blest Be the Tie That Binds."

Several members of the Legion post were present, among them Mrs. Blanchard's son, Philip, who was first commander of the local Legion post.

Following the memorial services, a kitchen shower for the newly renovated kitchen was held and refreshments were served.

Mrs. Carroll A. Devol is able to be around on crutches. She is spending a few days with Major and Mrs. Leon French in San Mateo.

Clarissa Ross, Isabelle Weeden Lindquist, Ethel French and Dora Scott Devol are planning to attend the 26th District meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary tonight in South San Francisco.

Joseph E. Widener led the list of nominators for the Matron stakes with 14. All of these filies will be eligible for the 1939 renewal of the event.

Central Traffic Court Proposal Enactment Seen

Foreseeing early passage of the ordinance now being drafted to create a permanent seven-man traffic safety commission, Supervisor Fred Beer said Wednesday that its passage would not prevent the board from considering provision in the next year's budget for a central traffic court.

Beer said that in his opinion the central traffic court is a necessity, although its establishment would require putting through the legislature a bill giving counties desiring to found such courts the right to do so.

At the next meeting of the supervisors, March 24, the ordinance will be approved, Supervisor Beer said he believed, but the board will not be able to name members of the committee until the ordinance goes into effect 30 days later.

NYA to Employ 35 County Boys, Girls on Project

Recreational supervision on school playgrounds and assistance in preparing visual education in San Mateo county schools comprise one of the features of a 10-project program announced today in San Jose by Carl F. Janish, district National Youth Administration project manager.

The projects will give part-time employment to 349 young men and women and will involve expenditure of a total of $37,193 of federal funds up to June 30.

The playground supervision and visual education project will be for grammar schools and will employ 12 boys and 23 girls at a total cost of $4020. The grammar schools, Janish said, are sponsors of the project.

Among the other projects is one for $1892 for recreational leadership and assistance in sports and game at Palo Alto Community Center, employing 30 boys and 15 girls, with the total cost set at $4816.

Patrolman Bags Large Wildcat At Rocky Point

Chester Kreiss, 532 Oak street, Redwood City, state highway patrolman, went "big game" hunting late Tuesday afternoon at Rocky Point on the Old La Honda road and brought down a 55-pound wildcat.

He shot the three and a half-foot tall cat with a shotgun after having watched for the animal off and on ever since last fall, when he had spotted the bobcat during quail season.

The cat was a tawny animal, its tufted ears, bristling whiskers and cruel claws being the only marks which distinguished it from a house cat, aside from its large size.

Thorn trees, aloes and euphorbias are common in the South African veld.

Heavy Fire Loss Recorded Here In Two Months

With 22 alarms during January and February, the Redwood City Fire Department recorded a total fire loss of $3,150 during the first two months of 1937, reports issued today revealed.

The total for the past 8 months is not much more than twice the past 60 days, with $7,785 going up in smoke and flames, indicating that fire losses during January and February were heavier than in many months. Both December and November, 1936, however, had been unusually free of trouble.

Most of the loss occurred in January, with $2,000 credited to buildings, and another $50 to contents destroyed. February was divided into $800 for buildings and $300 for contents.

The total eight month period ran $6150 for buildings, and $1635 for contents.

Flushing Out Of Water Pipes Underway Here

Working from midnight to 6 a.m. so as not to disturb regular water service, the Redwood City Water Department Wednesday morning began the task of flushing out the system for the third time within the past year.

Cleaning out sections of the central mains is done by opening hydrants onto the streets and letting the water flow through as fast as it can, Acting City Manager C. L. Dimmitt explained.

The purpose of the "flush-out" is to clear the mains of harmless iron bacteria that have invaded the local system from the Hetch Hetchy lines. The bacteria have acted merely to discolor the water in some localities, all west of El Camino Real, Dimmitt said.

It took nearly a week to complete the "flush-out" before, Dimmitt said, but this time he expects three or four days will complete the task, because trouble has been less extensive and the affected areas are confined to centralized localities.

Meanwhile added chlorine plants far up the Hetch Hetchy lines, from which Redwood City now receives two-thirds of its water, the other third being pumped from local wells, will eliminate the original bacteria source, San Francisco Water Department officials have announced.

DARED DEATH to SPEND A WEEK in POPOCATEPETL'S SMOKING CRATER

How twenty-five Alpinists braved icy blizzards, hot sulphur fumes, rock cannonades and hair-raising precipices to camp in the pit of the volcano whose menacing plume has awed Mexico since Aztec days

By Mildred Gordon

DARING death by descending into a roaring inferno of shooting fire and poisonous gases, an adventurous explorer and his companions have conquered Popocatepetl for the first time since 14 years ago, when 20 died on the lava floor of the belching crater.

The natives call this Vesuvius of North America the volcano of "the thousand thrills and thousand deaths." And thrills there were for William Rink and his colleagues—and almost death.

Like human flies, they climbed ice wastes where a slip would have sent them careening on a roller coaster of death. Like jungle apes, they played about on a rope ladder where a misstep would have hurtled them into an abyss of rock hills and canyons. Like tight rope walkers, they straddled solid ground between fissures, out of which puffed clouds of smoke.

They lost their way in billowy masses of sulphur fumes. They struggled against cyclonic winds which would have swept them to their doom. They fled for cover as ton boulders and avalanches of rock thundered down on them.

This was a Dante's inferno come true, a limbo of lost souls where other men too had mocked the Smoking Mountain and paid with their lives.

Yet the Rink party pitched camp in the depths of the seething crater and defied the whole legion of legendary demons for one week while the members carried on their exploration of the crater's floor and walls.

POPOCATEPETL, which is one of the few active volcanoes in North America, stands majestically 40 miles southeast of Mexico City, iridescent ice fields crowning its peak. To the thousands of American travelers who catch a glimpse of it on clear days from Mexico City and Puebla, the cone looks like an old Japanese print of Fujiyama, rising so apparently calm and peaceful in the fleecy clouds.

When the snowy majesty of Mexico's most famous volcano is topped by a grim plume of smoke and volcanic ash... Popocatepetl photographed during its last eruption, in 1921.

But to the trudging Indians of Amecameca, the little thatched-roof village which nestles at the mountain's foot, Popo is a terrifying hell fire where the Devil himself lives and with fiendish joy works his black magic.

Black magic? Didn't 20 azufreros—those who dig in sulphur deposits—perish in 1921 when a rope ladder which led from the volcano floor to the brink of the crater snapped? Trapped like wild animals, they suffered horrible deaths as a zero blizzard swirled into the cone. Before rescuers could slide down to the timber line and hike from there to Amecameca, and then climb to the summit again with a new ladder, a matter of four days, the azufreros had been buried under a several-foot fall of snow.

And didn't Popo belch forth shortly afterward in grim exultation?

WHEN another expedition a few months ago challenged the black magic, didn't the Devil trick an explorer while he was sliding over the ice? The adventurer, traveling too fast, swerved from his course and sped rocket-like off the brink of a chasm, crashing against a rock wall.

The grim black magic, though, didn't daunt

"The usual pandemonium of sound gone mad was cracked by a piercing staccato, like the firing of machine guns. Horrified, we saw an avalanche of rocks rushing straight for us."

Some time during the last 14 years, the Smoking Mountain had exploded and hurled a mass of rock and ash skyward.

"This is a good example of how a volcano is formed," Rink pointed out. "Contrary to the usual impression, not all volcanoes are mountains which have exploded. The mountain—the cone—often results from the internal eruptions, the pressure inside of the earth which belches the lava through vents or chimneys. This lava keeps building the cone mountain higher and higher."

"That is true of this second crater, which is a growing one—a history in itself of how volcanoes are born. If Popo continues to belch forth rock and ash, the cone will mount higher, but if Popo grows tired, this crater will wear away before erosion and eventually disappear."

"At some time or other within the last few years, a terrific explosion occurred in this inner crater. This blast blew out one side, leaving a natural doorway through which you can walk right into the funnel."

"The crater holds, cup-like, a beautiful, bluish-green lake, an emerald set in awesome surroundings. The gases underneath keep the waters bubbling. And there are scores of fumaroles—smoking fissures—scattered about the lake, as though guarding it."

"This inner crater is a baby one. It measures only 300 feet across. Popo extends 2700 feet in diameter, or about a half mile."

THE ascent of Popo itself is quite a feat. The Smoking Mountain rises to 17,520 feet, or only 2780 less than Mount McKinley in Alaska, the highest peak on this continent. The expedition outfitted at Amecameca and mules carried the tents, ice axes and other heavy paraphernalia to Las Cruces on the snow line.

"From there on, we depended on native guides to pack the equipment to the brink of the crater," Rink related.

The Indians made the trip from the ice line to the top and back every day for three days, and the distance one way is almost a mile.

"When you get three miles above sea level and try to climb, you do well to carry yourself, much less excess poundage. The Mexican Indian, though, still retains the vigor and stamina which characterized his race in the days of the Spanish conquistadores."

"We camped on the edge of the crater the second night. That was after we had fought our way through a terrific wind over ice which is so smooth that you have to wear spikes in order to keep from sliding to death. One slip half way up and you would shoot 2000 feet in a few seconds."

"Our faces were burned black because of the blinding reflection of the sun on the snow. That night we could see a hundred lights in the bottom of the volcano, where the smoke was shooting through the fissures."

"Climbing Popo, though, isn't unusual. It has been done hundreds of times. But few have ever gone into the very depths of the volcano and we were the first ever to pitch a camp there and actually live in that fiery brimstone factory."

"We had packed a marine ladder with us and we hitched this to an old windlass which had been used during the World War when sulphur was being extracted. The ladder was 180 feet long and dangled like a trapeze down an almost vertical rock wall. The spot is aptly named El Espinazo del Diablo—the Devil's Backbone."

"We had to pick our way most carefully from the end of the ladder to the bottom of the crater, a distance of about 600 feet. Inside the volcano, the deafening roar from the fissures seems as though it were going to split your ear drums. It's a sound like that of a thousand trains rumbling into a union depot, and after a time the incessant noise begins to unnerve you."

"Once in the crater, you have to keep on the lookout every minute. The erosion is so great that boulders and rocks are constantly falling from the sides. Hour after hour, through the roar of the spouting fumaroles, you hear the explosive crack of the rocks as they crash to the crater's floor. Some of them could easily kill a man."

ADDED to the eeriness of this unearthly din, white sulphur fumes shoot upward from more than 100 holes in the bottom of the crater. Like a geyser, these fumaroles erupt spasmodically, one perhaps pouring forth a steady stream of smoke while another belches every now and then. Although the floor seems solid enough, you know from those many fissures that you're walking on dangerous ground. At any moment you might be swallowed into the earth.

"We set up our camps in this land of the 100 smokes and let a fissure roast two chickens for us. Through the sulphur clouds, we could see the stars in the sky."

"The weather was bitterly cold. Frigid gusts of wind whirled about the sides and a snow storm raged around us."

"Our closest escape from death came when we started through the doorway into the second crater. The usual pandemonium of sound gone mad was cracked by a piercing staccato, like the firing of machine guns. Horrified, we saw an avalanche of rocks rushing straight for us. We ran for our very lives. Although a few small stones struck us, we dodged the boulders."

Mexican scientists estimate that the sulphur is a thousand feet deep, covering virtually the entire floor of the crater which extends over an area one-half mile square. The sulphur was mined during the war by scooping it into baskets and hoisting these to the brink.

BECAUSE of its height and the fearful possibility that it might some day come to life, as Vesuvius did when it buried Pompeii, the Smoking Mountain has played a dominant role for untold centuries in the life of the Valley of Anahuac, over which it towers.

An Aztec tradition even accounts for Popo's origin. According to this Beowulf-like tale, a brave warrior was in love with the daughter of the Aztec emperor. He asked her father for permission to marry her, and the ruler ordered him to bring in a hated enemy's head jabbed on a spear point.

The warrior sallied forth to battle, and killed his foe. Returning triumphant, with the head on his lance, he learned that his sweetheart was dead. His rival had told her that her fiancé had been slain and she had died from sorrow.

Taking her body into the valley south of Tenochtitlan, the Aztec site on which Mexico City is founded, he laid her on a funeral pyre. Lighting a torch, he prepared to touch off the wood but the gods turned him into stone.

Today his beloved lies just as he left her. The Indians long ago named the mountain Istac-sihual, or in English, White Woman. The natives point out her head and her hands folded across her bosom. Her lover still stands with the torch in his hand, and his name, Popocatepetl, means Smoking Mountain.

The Indians believe that the two are to remain thus for all time.

Treading the thin crust over the realm of everlasting fire... Members of the Rink party examining the fumaroles on the floor of Popocatepetl's crater.

Explorer William Rink and his Legion Alpina. The party numbered 25 and was led by Rink, resident of Mexico and an authority on the volcanoes of the southern republic, and Hector Fernandez and Augustin Santin, prominent Mexican explorers. They went to map the huge crater, to chart the smoke eruptions through the fissures, to study the sulphur deposits on the volcano's floor, and to determine the geological structure of the walls.

To their surprise, they discovered another cone inside of Popo—a crater within a crater!

SEE for yourself THE RIGHT AND WRONG OF LAMPS AND LIGHT!

RIGHT... At a distance of 1 1/2 feet from this lamp a minimum of 20 units of light are procured. This quantity of light scientists say is needed for reading fine print.

WRONG... A decorative lamp of low height and narrow shade. At a distance of 1 1/2 feet—the correct seeing distance—only a few units of light are produced. Such a lamp causes eyestrain.

Without cost to you a P.G. & E. sales-service representative will gladly check your home lighting with a Sight Meter

NOW you can have a lamp designed for eye comfort as well as ornamental and decorative beauty. It is the lamp designed by the Illuminating Engineering Society to meet the need of Better Light for Better Sight. Due to remarkable improvements in design, this lamp is unlike the many ordinary lamps you may now have in your home or have seen for sale on the bargain counters.

Here are four good reasons why these radically different lamps give you more light for your money and protect the eyesight of every child, youth or adult who uses them for reading, study or sewing.

It gives several times as much light as the ordinary lamp because the shade is wide at the bottom and open at the top and gives light a chance to spread over a wider area.

It gives soft, diffused light without glare because of its inside opal glass diffuser and reflector.

It gives light from correct height because the standard is high enough to allow light to spread where you need it.

It gives beauty and decoration because more symmetrical proportions between shade and standard are possible.

Protect your eyes and the eyes of your family with one of these new lamps. They are made in either floor or table models. Prices are very moderate and within the range of everyone.

Man Captured Here Revealed As Jail Escape

Jack B. Hensley, charged with a morals offense in Redwood City, stood identified today as Harold Chilton, an escape from an Oklahoma jail, where he was awaiting transfer to the penitentiary to serve a term for a similar offense. Hensley had steadfastly insisted that he was not Chilton, but late Monday in the superior court of Judge Maxwell McNutt, he admitted suddenly that his real name is Chilton.

Police Chief C. L. Collins and the district attorney's office had been informed that Chilton, alias Hensley, had escaped from the Hobart, Okla., jail in 1935. Chilton was doing some forced labor on a road when a dust storm gave him the chance he sought to obtain his freedom. Collins said he had learned.

Having appointed Atty. Percy

S. F. Files Tax Suit Against County, Flynn

Claiming that the flume from Crystal Springs and San Andres Lakes, which the county assessed in 1935 as worth $54,390, had been destroyed several years before, the City of San Francisco has filed suit in superior court here asking return of $583 the Bay City paid as a first installment of taxes on the flume. Named as defendants were San Mateo county and Assessor Daniel Flynn.

Flynn, notified of the suit, pointed out that the wooden flume had been replaced by a concrete one. This new flume was a replacement and not an untaxable improvement, the assessor declared. At stake is over $2000 in protested taxes which have been accumulating since 1933.

Jackson to defend Chilton, Judge McNutt continued the case one week, when the alleged escape will plead.

Scotty Allan Real Pioneer In Winter Sports

Scotty Allan is one of the real pioneers of winter sports in California.

Even as a boy, "way back in 1870 he participated in winter sports events in the Swiss and Italian Alps.

When he journeyed to Alaska in the '90s he attended the first sports carnival ever held in Nome. That was in 1898. He also participated in winter sports events at Fairbanks and other famous "far north" cities.

His championship races in the Alaska Sweepstakes and the success he enjoyed, made Scotty an international favorite.

In later years, from 1928 to 1933, Scotty was the star attraction at the winter sports carnivals held in California in the high Sierras. For a period of six years Scotty and his Alaskan huskies were at Tahoe, Soda Springs, Truckee—all well known as winter sports centers.

In 1933 he was the guest of the Crater Lake Ski Club and for eight days he joined with the participants and guests in making that affair a grand success.

Despite his long association with winter sports carnivals and the stirring events of the out of doors, Scotty Allan still has all the enthusiasm of the amateur, and he seldom misses an opportunity to attend the affairs held anywhere in the snow country. Scotty's only answer to his perennial enthusiasm is "I guess it's in my blood."

And he adds, "Anyone who spends the greater part of his life in the great open spaces looks forward with keen anticipation to any opportunity to return, even though it may be for only a few days."
